This letter is to express concerns of a proposed rule change for a national "do not call" list. I believe that consumers should be made aware of their rights under the current laws

I believe that preemption is necessary to make clear one set of rules, that all companies can adhere to. By doing this, the consumer will still not receive unwanted telemarketing calls. It will also give legitimate businesses one set of guidelines to follow - vs each state having unique and specific regulations.

I hope the commission will realize the needs of the consumer and set national regulations that businesses can comply with. Preemption of the proposed rule is necessary to guarantee that there is no confusion by consumers and businesses alike, because of state's different policies.

Sincerely,

Wilma Beadle

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is being written to inform you of my opinion on pending legislation on the national telemarketing bill ~~(CG-02-278)~~ I am in favor of this legislation, which is set up to mandate the telemarketing industry

Telemarketing has been under fire in the last couple of years and some states have taken upon themselves by implementing law regarding this matter I agree that some form of action needs to be taken, but not by the individual state but by a federal level

To Whom It May Concern:

This is in regard to proposal CG 02-278 where the federal government is considering standardizing laws affecting FCC regulations concerning telemarketing practices. This is fair. I live in Indiana bordering on Illinois. My business is directly related to the effectiveness of our telemarketers. In Illinois, a telemarketer is allowed to contact me, but it is against their laws for us to call them in their fine state. I believe in a level playing field. How about letting us all play by the same rules? I exercised my right to vote, and this gives me the right to complain.

To Whom It May Concern

This letter is to provide comment on a proposed rule change for a national "do not call list". I am in full support to ensure consumers are aware of their rights under current law and aware of the protections available to them

By doing this the consumer will thwart unwanted telemarketing calls and a business will have one set of guidelines to follow instead of multiple rules in multiple states. I have thought that preemption is necessary to establish one set of rules that a legitimate business can follow.

I urge the commission to take into consideration the balance of consumers needs and the practical reasoning of a business to adhere to the guidelines

Dear Sir or Madam:

This letter is in reference to the proposed change in law to a national do not call list. I am in full support of ensuring consumers and companies are aware of their rights and regulations under the protections offered by the laws applicable to each.

After careful consideration, I conclude that preemption is necessary to establish one set of guidelines, that a legitimate business can follow as a standard. By establishing one preemptive law, the consumer will still thwart unwanted telemarketing calls and a business will have one set of rules to follow, versus the complexities of multiple states' laws.

I urge the commission to consider the balance of consumers' needs and the practical reasoning of a business to know, understand and adhere to the law. The number of states with telemarketing laws in place makes the consumers' desire obvious. I conclude that the proposed federal law's preemption is imperative to ensure that there is less confusion by multiple standards of multiple states.

Sincerely,

Jeremiah J. Tolliver

This letter is to express concerns of a proposed rule change for a nation; call list. Being a consumer, I am aware there are laws in place to protect the consumer.

I have come to the conclusion, that it is necessary to establish one set of rules that a business can follow without confusion and question. This will provide the consumer with the protection necessary not to receive unwanted telemarketing calls.

Therefore, I urge the commission to take into consideration the needs of the consumer and at the same time set forth guidelines with practicality in mind that a business can follow. I ask that preemption of the proposed rule is necessary to ensure there is not any Confusion of the differing guidelines set forth by the different states.

Sincerely,
